Police Chief Caught at Prostitution Raid

A South Jersey sex scandal has found a top cop on the wrong side of the law. The police chief of Runnemede, James Leason, was arrested Monday night for allegedly visiting a house of prostitution.

The Burlington County prosecutor's office and the state police raided an alleged prostitution ring in an apartment at the Arbor Apartments in Maple Shade, N.J. Along with Leason, 56, police also arrested two alleged prostitutes and a 66-year-old madam.

The prosecutor's office said that Leason had been a customer at the business for some time. Their investigation began in July 2003.

One neighbor called it "the fun house"

"Lot of traffic. Men only. I don't know really what was going on," said Jennifer Torres.

Runnemede's mayor, Frank Hartman, had no comment when reporters asked him about the arrest.

Leason has been charged with misconduct in office and patronizing a prostitute. The prosecutor's office is expected to hold a news conference Tuesday morning.
