Former Officer, Wife Cleared In Prostitution Ring Case

Several Witnesses Didn't Respond To Subpoenas

POSTED: 4:19 pm EDT August 4, 2009

UPDATED: 4:34 pm EDT August 4, 2009

CENTER GROVE, Ind. -- A former Indianapolis police officer and his wife accused of operating a prostitution ring from their home were cleared in the case on Tuesday.

Jeremy Lee and Lori Vernon-Lee were arrested last July after a raid of their Center Grove home from which police said the couple ran an escort service.

But Johnson County Circuit Judge Mark Loyd signed a motion late last week to strike the testimony and evidence from several unresponsive witnesses in the case, who have not responded to subpoenas, court records showed.

The case was formally dismissed on Tuesday.

Lee, who was a probationary officer at the time of his arrest, was fired last July. He was accused of wearing his police uniform while collecting money for the escort service. Jerry McCorry, 56, a former employee of the Marion County Sheriff's Department, was charged with patronizing a prostitute in connection to the same operation. He resigned from the department last summer.
