

Timothy McCullough given 20-year sentence in sex-trafficking case

kfoxtv.com

2014 Cop running sex trafficking ring Timothy Keith McCullough Jr.

Updated: Monday, June 29, 2015 | By: Jesse Martinez

EL PASO, Texas – Former El Paso County Juvenile Probation Office and former UTEP football player Timothy Keith McCullough Jr. was sentenced to 18 years in prison for his involvement in a sex-trafficking ring.

McCullough was found guilty in January of conspiracy to commit sex trafficking of persons, federal officials said.

Between May 2012 and March 2013, McCullough along with Richard Gray, 25; Deion Lockhart, 26; and Emmanuel Lockhart, 24, were involved in the forced prostitution of juveniles and adults by the Folk Nation/Gangster Disciples street gang.

Officials said they used force, fraud and coercion to get their victims to perform sex acts for money in El Paso, Killeen, Albuquerque, Las Vegas and Colorado.

Last week, a judge sentenced Emmanuel Lockhart to 20 years in prison, Deion Lockhart to 25 years in prison and Richard Gray a life sentence for his involvement.

Related:

Gang member convicted of being involved in sex-trafficking ring sentenced to life in prison

Jury continues deliberation in sex-trafficking case

Update: Four men found guilty of various charges in sex-trafficking